In reply to your questions about the National Archives studies on paper and tapes:

1. Beyond the attached note indicating an interest in the very chemical content of paper manufacturing, we cannot find many details on the proposed study of paper by National Archives. We will continue to seek out advance information on their plans.

STAT

2. We and all Government agencies have received an inventory questionnaire from NARS about magnetic tape volumes on hand, their content, and those of archival longevity.  is the Project Officer doing the initial review of the requirements involved. We will be in touch with you on this soon, because we feel the Information Processing Coordinators should be asked to gather the information or set forth the security restrictions precluding our participation or response. (Advance samples of forms attached).
